Summary

As a full stack PHP developer with 1 year of experience, I pride myself on being able to create dynamic and engaging web applications that deliver results. With a strong focus on user experience and performance, I strive to create web applications that not only meet the needs of clients, but also exceed their expectations.

My expertise lies in developing robust and scalable web applications, I am also skilled in front-end web development and app development using react native , including HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and jQuery. Furthermore, I have experience with various databases including MySQL.

Throughout my career, I have worked on a variety of projects ranging from small-scale websites to large-scale enterprise applications. My ability to work collaboratively with cross-functional teams, communicate effectively, and deliver quality code on time and within budget has helped me to develop a reputation as a reliable and results-oriented developer.

I am constantly learning and keeping up-to-date with new
